Supply Chain Management - Certificate (Mays MBA and MS Students Only)

Explain how affected parties (students, faculty, staff) will be informed of the impending closure.

This certificate has not been highly publicized. It is not listed on our website or in any published materials in Mays Business School. Faculty, staff, and students within the college will be notified of the discontinuation of the certificate via e-mail. An announcement will also be made across campus via the Grad Advisors listserv.

Explain how students will be helped to complete their programs of study with minimal disruption or additional expense.

There are currently two MBA students pursuing this certificate. Both are scheduled to graduate in May 2017 and will not be affected by the change.

Upload teach-out agreements with other institutions.

Explain how faculty and staff will be redeployed or helped to find new employment.

The discontinuation of this certificate will not affect the employment of any faculty or staff.

How many students are currently enrolled in the program? 2

Projected graduation date for the last student(s) in the program? 05/2017

Rationale for inactivation/deletion

Some of the courses in the certificate curriculum are no longer offered. Also, the students who have completed the certificate in the past four years have all been MBA students and the MBA program now has its own track in Supply Chain Management. There doesn't seem to be an interest in the certificate among MS students.
