Additional information
The phrase International Law has traditionally been used to refer to both Public and Private International Law. Private International Law refers to legal aspects of the international economy and conflicts among corporations and within international business. This course does not cover those aspects, but only focuses on public international law which is the relationship among states and application to individuals. Specifically, after reviewing the foundation principles of public International Law (Treaties, Custom, Equity and Jus Cogens), the course covers application of international law within the US, International Human Rights and Use of Force by the nation state as well as Law of the Sea applied to nations. The new course name therefore more accurately reflects the course content.
