Subject: FW: AGSC Courses for UCC

Sandra,

Students are required to have a 2.75 GPA prior to admission to student teaching. The C or better requirement in AGSC 402 and 405, which are the final courses prior to the field experience, demonstrates adequate preparation to be successful in a student teaching experience.

SUBJECT: Name change & prerequisite updates for HORT 306 & HORT 308

Thanks for the suggestions on the edits for the forms. Please find attached completed edited forms updating name changes and prerequisite requirements for HORT 306 and HORT 308 for the 2016 university catalog.

Name changes are submitted primarily to update terminology to that used in the profession in recent years. They also accentuate the fact that these courses reflect sustainable landscape design concepts and plant uses which were not really well conveyed with the original course titles.

The prerequisites were updated to reflect changes in the way the Department of Biology are now structuring their courses where BOTN 101 is being phased out and BIOL 111 or BIOL 113 now being the appropriate prerequisites. Students who have intro botany courses can still be accommodated by allowing instructor permission to the prerequisites. This will also allow us to permit enrollment if students have had previous plant materials oriented courses when transferring from other institutions or industry experience that would provide similar background information to that requested in the enumerated prerequisites in order to be able to take the course.

Thanks, for considering these requests.

MEMO

TO: Dr. Robert Knight, Chair COALS UPC

DATE: 8 September 2015

SUBJECT: Friendly revision to name change for HORT 308

Please find attached a completed edited form updating a name change and prerequisite requirements for HORT 308 for the 2016 university catalog.

The name change and prerequisites were originally approved at the last UNC for AGLS. As a matter of course I had asked those Departments requiring this course to weigh in on the proposed name change to ensure it would not conflict with their accreditation or curricula outcomes. In this case, the TAMU Department of Landscape Architecture supported the modernization of the course title for HORT 308, but asked for a friendly amendment as indicated in the full title and condensed title for transcripts as indicated on the revised form.

The name change was originally submitted primarily to update terminology to that used in the profession in recent years. It also accentuates the fact that these courses reflect sustainable landscape design concepts and plant uses which were not really well conveyed with the original course titles as terminology has evolved in the field over the past few years. Dr. Ming-Han Li, from the The Department of Landscape Architecture and Urban Planning indicated that this supported their curricula as well but suggested the minor working change to emphasis sustainable ranger than design which might be confusing with their course titles. Dr. Li, their Associate Department Head, asked to be copied on this request to reflect their Department’s support.

The prerequisites were updated to reflect changes in the way the Department of Biology are now structuring their courses where BOTN 101 is being phased out and BIOL 111 or BIOL 113 now being the appropriate prerequisites. Students who have intro botany courses can still be accommodated by allowing instructor permission to the prerequisites. This will also allow us to permit enrollment if students have had previous plant materials oriented courses when transferring from other institutions or industry experience that would provide similar background information to that requested in the enumerated prerequisites in order to be able to take the course.

Thanks, for considering this request.

RE: Change in OCN 252

We request a change in the catalog description for OCN 252. The old description indicated that the course was tailored to non-science majors. This is not true, and it is an introductory lab for oceanography that is suitable for all majors in the university. We have taken the non-science statement out of the description. The course will be taught same as it has always been and is currently in the core curriculum and should remain there.

If you have any questions, please contact our academic advisor, Andrea Dawson (979-845-7688; andi2008@geos.tamu.edu).

RE: PSYC 311/NRSC 311

The Department of Psychology requests that the cross-listed course PSYC 311/NRSC 311 be granted a name change from “Comparative Psychology” to “Animal Behavior.”

We are requesting the name change to make clearer to students that the course focuses on animal behavior. The term “comparative psychology” is historical and the field has moved away from this term.
Sandra,

Michael Masser, head of Wildlife and Fisheries, is willing to approve the course, but with the title change to “Psychology of Animal Behavior.” Psychology and I are both happy with this as it does reflect accurately what the course does.

Attached is the letter of support from Animal Science.

Doug,

We would be ok with the “Psychology of Animal Behavior” and would be willing to consider another name if you come up with one. Have a great weekend.

Michael

Michael,

Thanks for your input on this. Perhaps there could be some compromise title that would be acceptable to both Departments. Perhaps something like “Psychology of Animal Behavior,” which would make it more clear that this is a Psychology course, or perhaps some other title you feel would protect your interests but allow us to accomplish our goals.
Although a good number of our faculty do research on animal behavior/neuroscience and it is appropriate that we teach a course in Comparative Psychology, our purpose in proposing the retitling was certainly not to “corner the market” on animal behavior courses. Instead, our proposed retitling was simply to put a more contemporary and understandable label (to our students) on a course that has existed nearly as long as the Department itself.

This message is sent at the request of Dr. Russell Cross, head of animal science:

Dear Dr. Woods,

I am writing offer my support of changing the PSYC/NRSC 311 course title from Comparative Psychology to Animal Behavior. You are correct that our courses do not use the title Animal Behavior. The ANSC 310 course is Behavior and Management of Domestic Animals, and the ANSC 610 course is titled Applied Animal Ethology. I think that our future direction will emphasize the animal well-being or animal welfare component as much or more than the behavior component.

Also, I should call your attention to the fact that the College of Veterinary Medicine and Biomedical Sciences offers a course in their professional curriculum titled VMID 932 Animals and Society: Animal Behavior, Human-Animal Bond, Veterinary Ethics.

I appreciate the opportunity to comment. Best of luck.
